ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Many persons participated in various activities of the 1987 Enterprise Statistics program.

Primary direction of the program was performed by Charles A. Waite, Associate Director for Economic Programs; Roger H. Bugenhagen, Assistant Director for Economic and Agricultural Censuses; and Thomas L. Mesenbourg, Chief, Economic Census Staff.

This report was prepared in the Economic Surveys Division under the general direction of W. Joel Richardson, Chief. Alan I. Blum, Assistant Chief for Data Programs, was responsible for overall planning and management of the division's data programs and also coordinated activities with other divisions. John A. Dodds, Chief of the Enterprise Statistics Branch, supervised all phases of overall project development and planning. John W. Monaco directed and implemented planning procedures, specification development, data collection, editing and compilation of this report. Staff assistance was provided by Cynthia Schott, Philip Thompson, Kimberly Pressley, Jerry McDonald, and Patricia Patriarca. Network administration was provided under the direction of Mitchell L. Trager, Assistant Division Chief for Research and Methodology. Network support was provided by David Krystosik, John Sullivan, Charles Venters, and James Wilson.

The computer processing systems were developed and coordinated in the Economic Programming Division, Barry M. Cohen, Chief. H. Ray Dennis, Assistant Division Chief for Business and Construction Programs, was responsible for implementation of the computer systems. James Parker, Chief of the Special Projects Branch, supervised project development and planning. The computer programs were prepared under the direction of Dennis Kelly and Daniel Vacca. Staff assistance was provided by Scott Ankers, Edward Carr, Robert Penrod, and Jerry Richards.

General purpose programs for editing and interactive processing developed in the Statistical Research Division were adapted for the Enterprise Statistics program by Thomas Petkunas under the direction of Brian Greenberg. Imputation modules for editing were developed by Maria Bravo.

Mailout preparation and receipt operations, clerical and analytical review activities, data keying, and geocoding review were performed by the Staff of the Data Preparation Division, Joseph S. Harris, Chief.

Geographic coding procedures and associated computer programs were developed by the staff of the Geography Division, Robert W. Marx, Chief.

Computer processing was performed in the Computer Services Division, Marvin D. Raines, Chief.

The staff of the Administrative and Publications Services Division, Walter C. Odom, Chief, performed publication planning, design, composition, editorial review, and printing planning and procurement for publications and report forms. Bernadette J. Beasley provided publication coordination and editing.

Special acknowledgment is also due the many businesses whose cooperation has contributed to the publication of the data.

If you have any questions concerning the statistics in this report, call (301) 763-1758.

INTRODUCTION

PURPOSE AND USES OF THE ECONOMIC CENSUSES

The economic censuses are the major source of facts about the structure and functioning of the Nation's economy. They provide essential information for government, business, industry, and the general public.

Economic censuses furnish an important part of the framework for such composite measures as the gross national product, input-output measures, production and price indexes, and other statistical series that measure short-term changes in economic conditions.

Policy-making agencies of the Federal Government use the data, especially in monitoring economic activity and providing assistance to business.

State and local governments use the data to assess business activities and tax bases within their jurisdictions and to develop programs to attract business.

Trade associations study trends in their own and competing industries, and keep their members informed of market changes.

Individual businesses use the data to locate potential markets and to analyze their own production and sales performance relative to industry or area averages.

AUTHORITY AND SCOPE

Title 13 of the United States Code (sections 131, 191, and 224) directs the Census Bureau to take the economic censuses every 5 years, covering years ending in 2 and 7. The 1987 Economic Censuses consist of the—

Census of Retail Trade
Census of Wholesale Trade
Census of Service Industries
Census of Transportation
Census of Manufactures
Census of Mineral Industries
Census of Construction Industries

Special programs also cover enterprise statistics and minority-owned and women-owned businesses. (The 1987 Census of Agriculture and 1987 Census of Governments are conducted separately.) The next economic censuses are scheduled to be taken in 1993 covering the year 1992.

AVAILABILITY OF THE DATA

The results of each of the economic censuses are available in printed reports, for sale by the U.S. Government Printing Office, and on microfiche, computer tape, compact discs with read-only memory, and flexible diskettes, for sale by the Census Bureau. Order forms for all types of products are available on request from Customer Services, Census Bureau, Washington, DC 20233. A more complete description of publications being issued from this census is on the inside back cover of this document.

Census facts are also widely disseminated by trade associations, business journals, and newspapers. Volumes containing census statistics are available in most major public and college libraries. Finally, State Data Centers in every State and Business and Industry Data Centers in many States also supply economic census statistics.

WHAT'S NEW IN 1987

The General Report on Industrial Organization, last published in 1982, has been split into two separate publications, the Large Companies report and the Company Summary report.

The primary function of the Large Companies report is to display data collected on a form sent to large companies with 500 employees or more. The resulting tables show selected financial statistics of large companies. The Company Summary report contains most tables formerly published in the General Report on Industrial Organization. Both publications have expanded the selection of tables found in the 1982 report.

Data will be published on the basis of the newly updated Enterprise Industrial Classification (EIC) code system. The EIC code system was updated to conform with revisions made to the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system.

The scope of 1987 Enterprise Statistics has also been expanded to include selected transportation industries (EIC's 42, 44, and 47), as well as hospitals (EIC 806). Agricultural production (EIC 01 and 02) is not included in 1987. The Company Summary report has been expanded to include a table titled: United States—Company Statistics. This table includes many industries not covered in other tables of the 1987 Enterprise Statistics series.

HISTORICAL INFORMATION

The economic censuses have been taken together as an integrated program at 5-year intervals since 1967, and before that for 1963, 1958, and 1954. Prior to that time, the individual censuses were taken separately at varying intervals.

The economic censuses trace their beginnings to the 1810 Decennial Census, when questions on manufacturing were included with those for population. Coverage of economic activities was expanded for 1840 and subsequent censuses to include mining and some commercial activities. In 1902, Congress established a permanent Census Bureau and directed that a census of manufactures be taken every 5 years. The 1905 Manufactures Census was the first time a census was taken apart from the regular every-10-year population census.

The first census of business was taken in 1930, covering 1929. Initially it covered retail and wholesale trade, and construction industries, but it was broadened in 1933 to include some of the service trades.

The 1954 economic censuses were the first to be fully integrated—providing comparable census data across economic sectors, using consistent time periods, concepts, definitions, classifications, and reporting units. These were the first censuses to be taken by mail, using lists of firms provided by the administrative records of other Federal agencies. Since 1963, administrative records have also been used to provide basic statistics as well for very small firms, reducing or eliminating the need to send them census questionnaires. The Enterprise Statistics Program, which publishes combined data from the economic censuses, was made possible with the implementation of the integrated census program in 1954.

The range of industries covered in the economic censuses has continued to expand. The Census of Construction Industries began on a regular basis in 1967, and the scope of service industries was broadened in 1967, 1977, and 1987. The Census of Transportation began in 1963 as a set of surveys covering travel, transportation of commodities, and trucks. New for 1987 are publications reporting on business establishments engaged in several transportation industries, paralleling the data on establishments in other sectors. This is part of a gradual expansion in coverage of industries previously subjected to government regulation. The Survey of Minority-Owned Business Enterprises was first conducted as a special project in 1969 and was incorporated into the economic censuses in 1972 along with the Survey of Women-Owned Businesses.

Economic censuses have also been taken in Puerto Rico since 1909, in the Virgin Islands and Guam since 1958, and in the Northern Mariana Islands since 1982.

Statistical reports from the 1982 and earlier censuses provide historical figures for the study of long-term time series and are available in some large libraries. All of the census data published since 1967 are still available for sale on microfiche from the Census Bureau.

AVAILABILITY OF MORE FREQUENT ECONOMIC DATA

While the censuses provide complete enumerations every 5 years, there are many needs for more frequent data as well. The Census Bureau conducts a number of monthly, quarterly, and annual surveys, the results of which appear in publication series such as Current Business Reports (retail and wholesale trade and service industries), the Annual Survey of Manufactures, Current Industrial Reports, and the Quarterly Financial Report. Most of these surveys, while providing more frequent observations, yield less kind-of-business and geographic detail than the censuses. The County Business Patterns program offers annual statistics on the number of establishments, employment, and payroll classified by industry within each county.

SOURCES FOR MORE INFORMATION

More information about the scope, coverage, classification system, data items, and publications for each of the economic censuses and related surveys is published in the Guide to the 1987 Economic Censuses and Related Statistics. More information on the methodology, procedures, and history of the censuses will be published in the History of the 1987 Economic Censuses. Contact Customer Services for information on availability.

ENTERPRISE STATISTICS

The 1987 Enterprise Statistics is a series of publications based on data collected in the 1987 Censuses of Wholesale Trade, Retail Trade, and Service Industries, Manufactures, Mineral Industries, Construction Industries, and selected Transportation Industries. These reports include: the Large Companies report, the Auxiliary Establishments report, and the Company Summary report (formerly the General Report on Industrial Organization). Table 1. United States—Company Statistics, from the Company Summary report, provides some nonemployer data. Only employer firms were included for all other tables in the 1987 Enterprise Statistics series.

The Large Companies publication is based on responses from a separate 1987 Economic Census report form sent to companies with 500 employees or more. The resulting tables show selected financial statistics of large companies.

The Company Summary publication is based on responses from the many different 1987 Economic Censuses report forms. Each of the economic census questionnaires includes several general questions, such as kind of business, dollar volume of business, number of employees, amount of payroll, and company affiliation. The resulting tables furnish comprehensive data on the industrial organization, size structure, and legal form of organization of all census reporting firms and the establishments they own or control.

The Auxiliary Establishments publication presents data on separately reported auxiliary units of multiestablishment firms. The primary functions of these establishments are to manage, administer, service, or support the activities of the other establishments of the company. The tables furnish detailed financial statistics of auxiliaries by industry classification of the operating establishments they service, the type of management or supporting service function they provide, their employment size, and their geographic location.

CENSUS DISCLOSURE RULES

In accordance with Federal law governing census reports, no data are published that would disclose the operations of an individual establishment or business. However, the number of establishments in a kind-of-business classification is not considered a disclosure, so this information may be released even though other information is withheld.

HOW THE DATA ARE PRESENTED

This report presents census data collected for establishments (i.e., individual stores, factories, mines, etc.) aggregated to the company level, using the company affiliation information obtained from each business and industrial firm covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses. Virtually all economic census publications present information only for establishments. This publication, however, is unique among census reports in that it provides data for entire companies and their owned establishments. An establishment is defined as a business or industrial unit at a single physical location which produces or distributes goods or performs services. A company is a business organization consisting of all establishments under common ownership or control.

COMPANY STATISTICS

The company statistics shown in this report are organized into the following sections:

Company industrial and structural organization—Company establishment crosstabulations are prepared based on the entire company's primary industrial activity. These crosstabulations provide, within the analytical framework of a specifically designed enterprise classification system, detailed census data for studying the patterns of vertical integration and diversification among industrial firms. Additional company and establishment crosstabulations are provided displaying data by State and for previous census years.

Size—Size structure of companies is shown by employment size, receipts size, concentration of companies, and number of owned establishments.

Legal form of organization—Company data for each SIC level and enterprise industry category are shown by legal form of organization: corporation, partnership, sole-proprietorship, and other legal forms.

Auxiliary statistics—Auxiliary statistics are shown for companies owning one auxiliary or more. These data are further broken down into principal function performed by the auxiliaries tabulated.

RELIABILITY OF DATA

All data compiled in this report originated from either census questionnaires or administrative records of other Federal agencies and, therefore, are not subject to sampling errors. However, the data are subject to nonsampling errors. Nonsampling errors can be attributed to many sources: inability to identify all cases in the actual universe; definition and classification difficulties; differences in the interpretation of questions; errors in recording or coding the data obtained; and other errors of collection, response, coverage, and estimation for missing or misreported data.

The accuracy of these tabulated data is determined by the joint effects of the various nonsampling errors. No direct measurement of these effects has been obtained except for estimation for missing or misreported data; however, precautionary steps were taken in all phases of the collection, processing, and tabulation of the data in an effort to minimize the effects of nonsampling errors.

The Bureau of the Census obtains on computer tape limited information extracted from administrative records of other Federal agencies. This information is used in conjunction with other information available to the Census Bureau to develop estimates for firms for which responses were not received in time for publication. Also, see appendix A for a more detailed explanation of census coverage and methodology.

SPECIAL TABULATIONS

Special tabulations of 1987 Enterprise Statistics data may be obtained, depending on availability of time and personnel, on computer tape, or in tabular form. The data will be in summary form and subject to the same rules prohibiting disclosure of confidential information (including name, address, kind of business, or other data for individual business establishments or companies), as are the regular publications.

Special tabulations are prepared on a cost basis. A request for a cost estimate, as well as exact specifications on the type and format of the data to be provided, should be directed to the Chief, Economic Surveys Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

To discuss a special tabulation before submitting specifications, call 301-763-1758.

SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

SCOPE OF THIS REPORT

This report displays data collected for 3,878,866 companies with payroll and within the scope of the 1987 Economic Censuses. Data are collected for companies primarily engaged in mineral, construction, manufacturing, wholesale trade, retail trade, most service industries, and selected transportation industries. An indication of the extent of coverage of the Enterprise Statistics program is presented in table 1, which contains summary data for virtually the entire business universe. In 1987, 15,622,695 companies were included in the United States business universe with employment for all companies included in this universe of 84.5 million. Most of the companies not in the scope of the economic universe are classified in the finance, insurance, and real estate industries or do not meet the employment criteria.

INDUSTRY CHARACTERISTICS

In 1987, there were 3,878,866 companies within the scope of the economic censuses that employed 68.1 million people. The service sector made up the largest single component accounting for just under 38 percent of the total number of companies in the universe. The retail sector was next with 28 percent of the total. The manufacturing sector accounted for only 8 percent of the total number of companies, but it led all sectors with 31 percent of the total employment. Its nearly 37 percent share of sales and receipts was higher than the service and retail sectors combined.

The Eating and Drinking Places at the enterprise industry category level (EIC 58) employed the greatest number of people, 6,374,480, while Grocery Stores (EIC 54.1) had the largest volume of sales and receipts with approximately $300 billion. The ten enterprise industry categories accounting for the largest dollar volume of sales and receipts for companies in 1987 are summarized in table A.

Table A. Ten Largest Enterprise Industry Categories in Sales and Receipts: 1987

EIC code	Enterprise industry category	Sales and receipts
54.1	Grocery stores (retail)	299,822.8
55.1	New and used car dealers	290,382.3
51.4	Groceries and related products (wholesale trade)	269,404.7
37.1	Motor vehicles and equipment (manufacturing)	250,241.2
15	General building contractors	220,859.2
53.1	Department stores	194,195.4
29.1	Petroleum refining	178,249.4

Table A. Ten Largest Enterprise Industry Categories in Sales and Receipts: 1987—Con.

EIC code	Enterprise industry category	Sales and receipts
37.2	Aircraft, missiles, space vehicles (manufacturing)	177,944.7

50.8	Machinery, equipment and supplies (wholesale trade)	125,991.0

HISTORICAL DATA

After adjusting for differences in the scopes of the 1977 and 1987 censuses, several trends are apparent. In terms of number of companies, the service sector has grown the fastest, expanding by nearly 40 percent.[1] This sector's sales and receipts increased by 270 percent during this period. The retail sector, by sharp contrast, declined by 3 percent during the same period in total number of companies. The mining sector had the slowest growth rate in sales and receipts, posting only a 33 percent gain between 1977 and 1987.

Top growth for 2-digit EIC industries in terms of number of companies from 1977 to 1987 are: Business Services (EIC 73), 109 percent; Legal Services (EIC 81), 37 percent; and Oil and Gas Extraction (EIC 13), 36 percent. The ten Enterprise industry categories that showed the largest growth in number of companies are summarized by percent change in table B.

Table B. Ten Largest Growth Enterprise Industry Categories for Companies by Percentage Change: 1977 to 1987

EIC code	Enterprise industry category	Percentage change
		Companies	Employment	Sales and receipts
73	Business services	109	141	366
81	Legal services	37	106	290
13	Oil and gas extraction	36	–1	88
75	Automotive repair, services, and parking	31	113	235

38	Instruments and related products	24	8	130
27	Publishing and printing	24	40	263
17	Special trade contractors	19	54	155
16	Heavy construction, ex. building	19	1	73

[1]Enterprise industry categories 70, 80, 82, and 89 expanded in scope in 1982. They have not been included in the company growth calculations and rankings.

SIZE OF FIRM

Over 98 percent of all companies covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses had less than 100 employees. Companies primarily classified in construction, wholesale trade, and service industries with less than 100 employees accounted for more than 61 percent of the receipts in these areas. By contrast, less than 13 percent of the manufacturing division sales were generated by companies employing fewer than 100 employees, while 71 percent of their total sales and receipts come from companies with over 1,000 employees. See figure 1 for a percentage distribution of companies and their sales and receipts by employment size classes.

Only 925 of 3.8 million companies operated 100 or more business establishments. However, these companies accounted for nearly 27 percent of annual payroll and 26 percent of sales for all companies.

INDUSTRIAL DIVERSIFICATION

Thirty percent of the people employed by U.S. manufacturing firms worked in activities other than the primary industry of the reporting company. Industrial diversification in 1987 was most pronounced among manufacturers classified in Petroleum Refining (EIC 29.1), Tobacco (EIC 21), and Pulp and Paper Mills (EIC 26.1). Two-thirds of the employees reported by companies classified in these activities actually worked in other industries. Petroleum and Coal Products (EIC 29) was the most diversified 2-digit industry. Roughly 44 percent of sales and receipts were tallied within manufacturing. Central administrative offices and sales branch sales made up an additional 28 percent of the total, mining contributed 20 percent, retail trade accounted for 4 percent, and wholesale trade added 2 percent.

By contrast, almost 99 percent of all companies reporting were classified in only one industry. Legal Services (EIC 81) and Special Trade Contractors (EIC 17) had the least diversification.

ANNUAL PAYROLL

Employees working for diversified companies earned an average of 30 percent more than those employed by single industry companies. Additionally, payroll per employee varied markedly across industries. Companies with receipts of greater than 1 billion dollars a year paid their employees an average of $24,066, while companies with receipts of less than 1 million dollars paid their employees an average of only $10,928 per year. Mineral industries recorded the highest payroll per employee at $27,092 followed by manufacturers with $25,360. At the other end of the spectrum, retail trade companies averaged just $10,954 per employee. See figure 2 for average annual payroll per employee by industry section.

GEOGRAPHIC CHARACTERISTICS

California had the largest number of companies with 478,417 and also employed the largest number of employees, 8.2 million. These companies operated 565,536 establishments in California and 344,219 establishments in other States. New York was second in number of companies with 320,808. Thirty-six percent of the total number of establishments with 35 percent of the total employment were concentrated in California, New York, Texas, Florida, and Pennsylvania. Table C shows the number of companies and the total employment figures for the top ten ranking states in the nation.

Note: Employment size class is represented by one of the following symbols: A—Less than 20 employees; B—20 to 99 employees; C—100 to 249 employees; D—250 to 499 employees; E—500 to 999 employees; F—1,000 to 2,499 employees; G—2,500 to 4,999 employees; H— 5,000 to 9,999 employees; I—10,000 to 24,999 employees; J—25,000 to 49,999 employees; K—50,000 to 99,999 employees; L—100,000 employees or more.

[1]Service totals may not be comparable between Census years. The EIC structure was expanded in 1982 and includes additional service industries. The 1972 data does not include companies that reported annual payroll but did not report any employment on their payroll during the specified pay periods.

[2]EIC 70 was expanded in 1982 to include EIC 70B, Lodging Places, N.E.C., which includes rooming and boarding houses, organization hotels and lodging houses, and on membership basis.

[3]EIC 80 was expanded in scope in 1982 to include EIC 80B, Offices of Physicians; 80C, Offices of Dentists; 80D, Health Practitioners; 80E, Nursing and Personal Care Facilities; 80F, Medical Laboratories; and 80G, Outpatient Care and Health Services, N.E.C. Hospitals, which were added to EIC 80 in 1987, are not included in this data. Data are published based on the 1982 EIC classification system.

[4]The EIC structure was expanded in 1982 to include EIC 82 for the first time.

[5]EIC 89 was expanded in 1982 to include EIC 89B, Accounting, Auditing, and Bookkeeping Services and EIC 89C, Services N.E.C., which includes social services, noncommercial educational, scientific, and research organizations and services, n.e.c.

APPENDIX A.
Technical Notes

SOURCES OF DATA

Multiestablishment Companies

Since 1971, the Bureau of the Census has conducted an annual company organization survey of multiestablishment companies. Prior to the 1987 Economic Censuses, every multiestablishment company with more than 50 employees was required to complete census form NC-9901, Report of Organization, to determine its organizational and industrial structure as of the end of 1986. Specifically, each company was asked to update and correct a list of individual establishments owned or controlled by either the parent company or its subsidiaries. From the response, the Bureau of the Census was able to select and preaddress the appropriate 1987 census reports for each company. A company received a separate establishment report form for each physical location at which industrial and business activities within the scope of the 1987 Economic Censuses were conducted. As described by the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual[1], companies engaged in distinctly different lines of activity at one location were required to submit a separate establishment report for each activity if separate records were maintained and if the various activities were economically significant. Also, when more than one business (legal entity) was operated at a single location, each was regarded as a separate establishment for the censuses.

In addition to preparing a separate census report for each establishment producing or distributing goods or providing services to the general public or other business firms, each company covered in the economic censuses was asked to identify and report separately all auxiliaries. The primary functions of these establishments are to manage, administer, service, or support the activities of the operating establishments of the company.

During the actual censuses, information on company-establishment relationships and parent-subsidiary affiliations was confirmed or revised by including inquiries requesting information from firms either owning or controlling other companies or owned or controlled by another company in order to identify all subsidiary or parent firms.

Single-Establishment Companies

Single-establishment companies are classified as either: employer firms or nonemployer firms.

Employer firms—The Bureau of the Census created a mailing list of all employer firms engaged in industrial activities operating within the scope of the economic censuses by using a name and address computer file of all active businesses listed in the records of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) as having one or more paid employees, and a comparable name and address file of employers from the records of the Social Security Administration (SSA) containing the industry codes assigned to each business. The mailing list of single-establishment firms was developed by deleting from the initial list the records of all multiestablishment companies identified in the annual survey of multiestablishment companies.

In an effort to reduce both the costs of the censuses and the reporting burden on small businesses, single-establishment employers with payrolls below specified values, which varied by industry, were excused from filing 1987 censuses reports. (The quarterly payroll data reported on IRS form 941 was used to determine whether a firm was to receive a report form.) Instead, data on employment, payrolls, and sales were obtained from Federal payroll and income tax returns filed with the IRS. For minerals, construction, and manufacturing industries, other data items normally collected on the individual establishment reports were estimated either from industry averages or from sample data collected from other small companies. Based on the IRS data and any estimated items, a substitute census establishment report was generated for each non-mail single-establishment employer company. This procedure relieved the censuses reporting burden for many small business employers.

Nonemployer firms—The mailing list of employer firms does not include all single-establishment firms; excluded are firms with no paid employees.[2] Since these small businesses (usually operated by sole proprietors or working partners and their unpaid family members) are not subject to payroll taxes, they were not included in either the IRS file of business firms or the SSA file of industry classifications used to prepare the single-establishment mailing list.

Because of the statistical significance of these small businesses in the construction, retail trade, and selected service industries, special arrangements were made with the IRS to obtain business receipts, industrial classifications, and geographic locations of these firms from their Federal income tax returns.

In retail trade and selected service industries, only the returns reporting annual receipts of $1,000 or more were tabulated. The construction industries did not employ any such cutoffs.

Company Data

In presenting data on company-establishment relationships in this report, two distinct types of statistics are shown: company data and establishment data.

Company data—Refers to consolidated company-wide statistics which may represent either statistical aggregates of reported establishment data, or net, unduplicated totals reported by companies only at the enterprise level, as explained below.

Establishment data—In this report, refers to statistical aggregates compiled from the individual establishment reports collected in the economic censuses.

Each multiestablishment company that had 500 employees or more was mailed form ES-9100, Enterprise Summary Report, to obtain unduplicated, consolidated company totals of selected statistics. As in the 1982 Enterprise Statistics program, there was complete coverage for those multiestablishment economic companies with 500 employees or more.

The company totals collected on form ES-9100 represent consolidated domestic totals for the parent company and all of its subsidiaries as of the end of 1987. The data reported on merged or acquired companies varied because of differing accounting practices. When an acquisition or merger was treated by the company as a "pooling of interest," the data reflect the combined full-year activities of both acquiring and acquired companies regardless of the date of acquisition. In these cases, the company data corresponded with the establishment data, since the establishment reports represented full-year activities, all of which were tabulated as part of the new parent company. However, when an acquisition or merger was treated by the acquiring company as a purchase, the company data normally reflect the operations of the acquired company only after the acquisition took place. Since the acquired company's establishment reports, representing a full year's activities, were credited to the acquiring company in the tabulations, the summary data supplied by the acquiring company on form ES-9100 had to be restated to provide comparable company and establishment totals. The restatement was based on information obtained either from the new parent company or from the ES-9100 filed by the acquired company. The company data in this report are primarily of the "pooling of interest" sort; the exact extent of the "purchase" accounting method is not known.

ASSIGNING INDUSTRY CODES

Establishments

Each establishment covered in the Economic Censuses was assigned an industry or kind-of-business code according to the 1987 Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual, issued by the Office of Management and Budget, Executive Office of the President. Codes were chosen on the basis of the principal products made, lines of merchandise sold, type of construction activity performed, or services rendered by the establishment, as measured by the reported dollar volume of shipments, sales, or receipts during the census year. In some instances, the code was based on the principal materials or processes used. (For a comprehensive description of the Bureau's establishment classification procedures, see the introductory texts and appendixes of the various publications of the 1987 Economic Censuses.)

Companies

Each company covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses was classified in one of 146 enterprise industry categories (see appendix C). The two-digit SIC codes of companies shown in this publication are an aggregation of the detailed enterprise industry category codes.

Single-industry companies—For single-establishment and multiestablishment single-industry companies, the industry category classification was simply the enterprise category that was the equivalent of the single census industry (four-digit SIC code) in which the company's one or more establishments were primarily engaged.

Multi-industry companies—For the multiestablishment multi-industry companies, the enterprise industry classification was determined by first ascertaining the largest census industry division (manufacturing, wholesale trade, etc.) of each company; then, the primary enterprise industry category was selected from within that division. The determination of the largest census industry division and the primary enterprise industry category was made from establishment annual payroll data.

Establishment payroll data were chosen to be the determining factor for enterprise industry classification of multiestablishment, multi-industry companies because they were found to be the most meaningful economic measure common to all economic censuses divisions. There are only three data items common to all economic censuses establishment reports. They are: employment, annual payroll, and dollar volume of business.

The employment data item covers different time periods for different industries and is affected by seasonality. Sales and receipts may not accurately reflect the relative economic impact of companies in different industries. For example, sales and receipts of a wholesale broker represent gross sales made rather than commissions received and might be greater than that of a hotel—yet a hotel's sales and receipts would have more of an impact. Annual payroll, then, has been determined .o be the best economic measure, i.e., the item represents a full calendar year and is a good indicator of relative economic impact.

Integrated petroleum extraction and refining companies—Because of the widespread practice of the larger petroleum extraction and refining companies in vertically integrating their activities, Industry Category 29.1, Petroleum Refining (including integrated), was defined to include census (SIC) industries which cut across industry division lines. A company was classified in category 29.1 if it: (1) operated establishments both in SIC Industry 1311, Crude Petroleum and Natural Gas, and in Industry 2911, Petroleum Refining; and (2) was primarily engaged in both industries, as reflected by its payroll. A company engaged in both industries 1311 and 2911, but primarily engaged in another industry category, was classified in that other category.

Nonintegrated petroleum companies primarily engaged in extracting or refining activities (industry 1311 or industry 2911, but not both) were classified in either the mineral industry category 13.1 or the manufacturing industry category 29.1, using the standard classification procedure for coding multi-industry companies.

OUT-OF-SCOPE ACTIVITIES

To present meaningful company data encompassing all economic activities, data on out-of-scope activities have been included in this publication if a majority of the owning company's payroll was classified as primarily within the scope of the 1987 censuses. On the other hand, if the firm was primarily engaged in activities outside the scope of the 1987 censuses, based on payroll, the data for its predominantly out-of-scope activities were excluded, while the data for its in-census-scope establishments were included.[2] For example, in handling companies primarily engaged in public utilities activities, data on their primary activities were excluded, while data on their retail appliance stores were included.

COMPARABILITY OF DATA[2]

The 1987 and 1982 censuses were conducted under similar conditions and procedures. However, strict comparability of the data for the two censuses is limited by the following factors:

Scope—In 1982, the agriculture census was conducted as part of the Economic Census, and agricultural production of crops and livestock was added to the scope of the Enterprise Statistics Program. In the 1987 program, agricultural industries were excluded. The scope of the 1987 enterprise program was enlarged by including companies/establishments who report Federal income tax and are classified in the following industries: Trucking and Courier Service, Water Transportation, and Transportation Services, as well as Hospitals. (Health services except hospitals were included in 1982.) The census of service industries also covered these industries and, in addition, included (in separate tables) establishments not subject to Federal income tax in the above industries plus museums, art galleries, and botanical and zoological gardens; membership sports and recreation clubs; fairs; and selected membership organizations. These tax-exempt establishments were not included in scope of the 1987 enterprise program.

CLASSIFICATIONS

In 1982, classifications for company data were based on the 1974 Enterprise Standard Industrial Classification (ESIC) manual and its 1977 supplement. ESIC codes were derived by adapting the four-digit Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system to relate more meaningfully to consolidated company structure.

For 1987 classifications, the Standard Industrial Classification system was revised. The SIC structure was changed as some industry categories were merged to better reflect current industrial trends. The Enterprise Industrial Categories (EIC) were subsequently revised to conform with the new SIC structure. These changes limit the comparability of data between the 1982 and 1987 censuses. The kinds of businesses undergoing the most major changes are within the manufacturing categories. In 1987, there are a total of 146 enterprise industry categories as compared to 214 categories in 1982. Appendix C compares 1987 Enterprise Industrial Categories with 1987 Standard Industrial Classifications. Table 12 of this report displays historical data for the previous three economic censuses with 1987 data. All data are displayed based on 1974 two-digit ESIC codes.

History—Historical comparability of data in each enterprise industry category is also affected by the large diversified companies which significantly changed their industrial activities "mix" between 1982 and 1987 through internal company growth or merger, acquisition, or disposal of subsidiaries with resulting shifts in their industry category classifications. Such classification "transfers" of company aggregates (e.g., tabulated in industry category "A" in 1982, but in industry category "B" in 1987) may constitute a significant part of the observed net historical changes in the company totals of some industry categories shown in this report.

COMPARABILITY WITH OTHER PUBLICATIONS

Other Economic Census Publications

Since both the concepts and the coverage of the economic censuses were generally applicable to these tabulations, the comparable totals appearing in this report and the various 1987 Economic Censuses publications are virtually the same. It is important to note that establishment figures in this publication are based on the company classification of their owning firms, and are not directly comparable with any of the regular economic censuses totals, which were tabulated only on an establishment classification basis.

Establishment counts—The establishment counts appearing in this report differ significantly in some industries when compared with the establishment counts shown in the various economic censuses volumes.

The number of establishments shown in this report for wholesale, retail, and selected service industry categories were greater than their counterparts appearing in the censuses of distributive trades and service industries publications. This difference was primarily due to the censuses of distributive trades and service industries practice of excluding the counts of those establishments not in business at the end of the census year (but including their data on employment, payroll, etc.). However, such part-year-business establishments were counted in the enterprise statistics tabulations to maintain consistency across all other divisions.

Also, treatment of nonemployer firms will differ in construction, retail, and service. For this report, nonemployer firms were not included in the tables.

Data totals—It was necessary to bring together, from each of the 1987 Economic Censuses, the computer records for all establishments under common ownership or control. Both single-establishment and assembled multiestablishment companies underwent various data edits and consistency checks. Specifically for multiestablishment companies, various editing checks were routinely made to verify the internal consistency of each company's establishment records when aggregated to company data totals. Checks of the establishment data were also made against the totals available from the ES-9100. Significant errors in the establishment or company data records revealed by these edits also were corrected.

Whenever possible, the correction of such errors uncovered during the company edit of establishment records was also carried to the regular economic censuses tables. In many instances, however, the company edit operation came after the census industry totals had been published. Conversely, many of the corrections made during the review of the final censuses publication tables were made too late to be reflected in establishment computer records used as the basic source for this report. Although the more significant revisions were incorporated into the final computer tapes as late corrections, many of the smaller ones were not.

APPENDIX B.
Explanation of Terms

ANNUAL PAYROLL

Payroll includes all forms of compensation, such as salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses, vacation allowances, sick-leave pay, and the value of payments in kind (e.g., free meals and lodgings) paid during the year to all employees. Tips and gratuities received by employees from patrons and reported to employers are included. For corporations, it includes amounts paid to officers and executives; for unincorporated businesses, it does not include profit or other compensation of proprietors or partners. Payroll is reported before deductions for social security, income tax, insurance, union dues, etc. This definition of payroll is the same as that used by the IRS on form 941.

AUXILIARIES

Auxiliaries are defined as establishments whose employees are primarily engaged in general and business administration; management; research, development, and testing; warehousing; electronic data processing; and other supporting services performed centrally for other establishments of the same company rather than for other companies or the general public.

Each auxiliary reported in the economic censuses was assigned a code based on the standard industrial classification (SIC) of the establishments within the company for which the auxiliary performed its supporting services. These "industry-serviced" codes reflect SIC major group (two-digit) or industry group (three-digit) rather than individual industry (four-digit) classifications, because the auxiliaries of the larger and more industrially diversified companies (which accounted for the bulk of auxiliary activities) typically served establishments classified in more than one industry group or industry.

COMPANY

A company is a business consisting of one domestic establishment or more that the reporting firm specified under its ownership or control at the end of 1987. If a company owned or controlled other companies, all establishments of the subsidiaries are included as part of the owning or controlling company. In this report, the terms company, firm, and enterprise are used interchangeably.

To emphasize the extent of industrial diversification in the data shown, companies that operate establishments in only one of the 146 enterprise industry categories are distinguished from those that operate establishments in two or more industry categories or are engaged in at least one activity out-of-scope of the censuses: i.e., single-industry companies are distinguished from multi-industry companies. In making the "single-industry" versus "multi-industry" determination for a multiestablishment company, its auxiliaries and its sales branches are not included in making the type-of-company classification.

While all multi-industry companies must necessarily be multiestablishment, single-industry companies may be either single-establishment or multiestablishment. Single-industry firms are classified in the enterprise category that is the equivalent of the single census industry (four-digit SIC codes) in which the company's one or more establishments are primarily engaged.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment in the economic census is defined as all employees, full-time and part-time, as reported on establishment payrolls during specified pay periods during 1987. Persons on paid sick leave, paid holidays, and paid vacations are included as employees, as are salaried officers and executives of corporations. However, proprietors and partners of unincorporated businesses are not considered employees.

The derivation of the 1987 employment figures varied somewhat among the different economic censuses. For establishments in the mineral, manufacturing, and construction industries, employment represents an annual average of the number of "production workers" on the payroll for any part of the pay periods including the 12th of March, May, August, and November, plus the number of "all other employees" on the payroll during the March 12th pay period.

All employment data except that for out-of-scope activities are based on either data reported on individual establishment report forms or data from IRS form 941 for small employer firms not required to complete a census report. For out-of-scope activities, employment data are developed from the number of employees as of the March 12th pay period reported on the form NC-9901, Report of Organization.

ENTERPRISE

For this report, an enterprise is the same as a "company." See "company" for a detailed definition.

ENTERPRISE INDUSTRY CATEGORY

An enterprise industry category is a group of four-digit SIC industries that were specifically designed to relate to enterprises rather than to establishments. It is an adaptation of the four-digit SIC classification system to provide an industrial classification system that is meaningful in expressing consolidated company aggregates of the establishment data collected in the economic censuses. For this purpose, various economic and statistical criteria were developed that are considered to be the most relevant in describing the economic characteristics of enterprises rather than establishments. These criteria, which are similar to those used in 1982, were as follows:

1. At least 50,000 employees in an industry or receipts of $2 billion or more.
2. An industry specialization ratio of at least 70 percent for nonmanufacturing and 60 percent for manufacturing.
3. Compatibility with the SIC system for establishments and the enterprise SIC.
4. Compatibility with the 1982 Enterprise Statistics classification system.

Enterprise industry categories are grouped to form industry divisions representing major sectors of the economy—construction, manufacturing, retail trade, etc.

ESTABLISHMENTS

An establishment in the economic census is defined as a business or industrial unit at a single physical location which produces or distributes goods or performs services. One significant deviation in this establishment concept occurs in the construction industry. Relatively permanent offices that have the responsibility for performing management and other administrative functions for one or more construction projects or sites are classified as operating construction establishments. However, an establishment primarily engaged in general administrative, management, or support functions performed centrally for one or more construction establishments is considered an auxiliary.

FIRM

For this report, "firm" is the same as "company." See "company" for a detailed description.

INDUSTRY SPECIALIZATION RATIO

An industry specialization ratio shows the relationship between the establishments engaged in the primary activities of companies in an industry and the activities of all their operating establishments (both primary and secondary). The ratio excludes those establishments classified as sales branches or auxiliaries.

It measures the extent to which companies classified in a given industry tend to mix their industrial activities. The lower the ratio, the less industrially specialized are the companies classified in the industry, or (inversely) the more industrially diversified they are.

LARGE COMPANY

A large company is defined as having 500 employees or more. The qualifier of 500 employees is more for practical considerations inherent in the records used to prepare this report, rather than for economic or statistical considerations. The qualifier was chosen because enough large companies exist in most categories to permit publishing considerable data without disclosing the activities of individual companies.

LEGAL FORM OF ORGANIZATION

Legal form of organization is the method used to distinguish each company as an individual proprietorship, partnership, corporation, or other business entity. Each company covered in the 1987 and previous economic censuses was classified into specific legal forms of organization.

Individual proprietorships—Unincorporated companies owned by one person.

Partnerships—Unincorporated companies owned by two or more persons having financial interest in the business (joint ventures, except corporations, are included as partnerships).

Corporations—Companies legally incorporated under State laws including nontax-exempt cooperatives.

Other legal forms—Included in this group are cooperatives, estates, receiverships, government-owned liquor stores, etc. All agriculture cooperatives, including nontax-exempt cooperatives, are classified as "other legal forms."

MANUFACTURERS' SALES BRANCHES AND SALES OFFICES

Manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices are wholesale trade establishments that primarily distribute products manufactured by the owning company. In the SIC manual, manufacturers' sales braches and sales offices are classified as wholesale trade operating establishments and are treated that way in the publications of the census of wholesale trade.

SALES AND RECEIPTS

Sales and receipts are defined as the receipts for goods produced or distributed or services provided. Excluded from sales are nonoperating receipts, returns on investments, and interest. Two types of sales and receipts figures were collected in the 1987 Economic Censuses and earlier economic censuses. The first type consists of gross sales and receipts reported by establishments, including estimated values assigned to intra-company transfers of goods and services among establishments within the same company. The second type consists of net sales and receipts reported by companies (or estimates derived from census establishment data), excluding the values of intra-company transfers among their own establishments.

a. Establishment sales and receipts—Establishment sales and receipts are represented by various measures to show the concept of gross dollar volume of activity by establishments covered in the economic censuses. Wholesale trade (including manufacturers' sales branches and sales offices) and retail trade collected data on the "dollar volume of business" for the cash or credit sales of merchandise. Construction industries collected data on "business receipts" to directly reflect the dollar amount of goods sold and work done. Service industries gathered data on "operating receipts" which showed the total of all receipts from customers, patrons, or clients for services rendered and merchandise sold during the year, whether or not payment was received that year. From manufacturing and mineral industries, similar data were collected on "value of shipments" which reflect the net selling values of products. Auxiliaries were asked to report sales to customers outside the company, but to exclude transactions with other establishments of the owning company or sales to customers or receipts for services already reported by other establishments of the owning company. All such data are included under the general term "sales and receipts" in this report.

   Because of duplication, the aggregates of these establishments' sales and receipts ordinarily exceed a firm's total net sales and receipts, which reflect only commercial transactions with outside customers. For more detailed descriptions of the specific sales and receipts measures used by the divisions covered, see the publications of the 1987 Economic Censuses.

b. Company sales and receipts—Some establishments of a multiestablishment company transfer part or all of their products together to establishments of the company for further processing or distribution, rather than shipping them directly to outside customers. Since these intra-company shipments are assigned approximate commercial values (for the basic economic census purpose of measuring gross output by the industry classification of establishments), the gross cumulation of establishment figures usually overstates the actual net sales and receipts of a company, especially those of the larger multiestablishment companies. The overstatement is partially offset by the lack of sales and receipts for establishments out of the scope of the censuses. Sales and receipts data for out-of-scope activities are reported by large companies on form ES-9100, Enterprise Summary Report.

   Unduplicated net sales and receipts figures for large companies are obtained from form ES-9100. The net figures for small multiestablishment companies are derived by aggregating and comparing the equivalent figures for:

   (1) the operating establishments of the company (i.e., the value of shipments reported by minerals and manufacturing plants and sales and receipts reported by construction, wholesale, retail, selected service, and agricultural production establishments), and

   (2) the manufacturers' sales branches and the auxiliaries.

   The larger of the two totals is considered the correct one. Many manufacturing companies, who also operated their own sales branches or sales offices, excluded the "markup" between the plant and the sales branch or sales office from their value of shipments. For this reason, the sales and receipts reported by the sales branches are the tabulated sales and receipts figures for the company.

   For single-establishment companies, sales and receipts data are obtained from establishment report forms or administrative records.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

Type of organization refers to the number of establishments operated by a company. A single-establishment company is one with only one establishment engaged in economic activities; a multiestablishment company is one with two or more establishments engaged in such activities. If a company is engaged in two or more distinctly different lines of economic activity (wholesale or retail trade, manufacturing, construction, service, mining, etc.) at the same physical location, and separate records can be prepared for each activity, each activity would be classified as a separate establishment.

IMPORTANT — This is an enterprise summary report

PURPOSE OF THIS FORM

- The purpose of this form is to obtain consolidated information for domestic activities of your enterprise.

WHAT IS AN ENTERPRISE?

- An enterprise is a business, service, or membership organization consisting of one or more establishments under common ownership or control.
- It includes all establishments of subsidiary companies, where there is more than 50 percent ownership, as well as establishments of firms which the enterprise has the power to direct or cause the direction of management and policies.
- An enterprise may vary in composition ranging from a single legal entity (e.g., corporation, partnership, etc.) to a complex family of legal entities under common ownership or control.

WHAT SHOULD BE REPORTED?

- Report for all establishments of your firm. Include operating locations, administrative offices, and sales offices owned or controlled by this enterprise and its subsidiaries.
- Include your enterprise's activities in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. Do not include activities in foreign countries or U.S. possessions such as Puerto Rico, Guam, etc., except for reporting foreign assets on line 36.
- Include subsidiaries whether or not they are consolidated in your enterprise's books.
- Report consolidated information. Exclude domestic intra-enterprise transfers.
- Report for the 1987 calendar year. If calendar year records are not available, fiscal year reports for the period ending between October 31, 1987 and February 29, 1988 are acceptable. Be sure to complete every item. If book figures are not readily available, enter "0" in items where appropriate.
- Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) should be followed when filling out this form.
- For assistance in completing this form, call the Census Bureau's Enterprise Statistics Branch (301) 763—1758.

HOW TO REPORT DOLLAR FIGURES

Value figures may be reported in dollars or rounded to thousands.

Example: If a figure is $1,179,126,628, report either

	Billions (000)	Millions (000)	Thousands (000)	Dollars (000)

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

Who should report?

- All auxiliary establishments which were operated during any part of 1987.

What is an auxiliary establishment?

- An establishment primarily engaged in performing management, supervision, general administrative functions, and supporting services for other establishments of the same enterprise, rather than for the general public or other business firms.

  Examples of auxiliary establishments: Central offices, corporate offices, regional offices, accounting offices; research, development, and testing laboratories; central repair shops; warehouses; computer centers; etc.

What should you report?

- Report only for the activities of this auxiliary establishment. EXCLUDE all operating activities which produce goods or services reported on another 1987 Economic Censuses report form (i.e., manufacturing, selling, etc.).
- If book figures are not readily available, carefully prepared estimates for data items are acceptable for statistical purposes.
- Be sure to complete every item. Enter "0" in items where appropriate.

What is an enterprise?

- An enterprise consists of a parent firm and all its establishments and subsidiaries under common ownership or control.

Item 20 — INVENTORIES

The Census inventory inquiries are designed to collect information concerning all of the inventories owned by each enterprise and which are located within the United States.

Inventories of multi-establishment enterprises should be reported by the establishment that is responsible for the inventories even if these inventories are held at a separate location. In this way, all inventories are accounted for on a nonduplicated basis. The sum of the inventories of all establishments of an enterprise should be approximately equal to the enterprise's total inventories after adjusting for valuation differences.

For lines a through e report only those inventories that are attributable to this establishment's operations. Report such inventories as if this establishment owns them. Do not include inventories located at this establishment which are the responsibility of other establishments of your enterprise.

Include
- Finished products
- Work in process
- Materials, supplies, fuels, etc., which are for resale or for further fabrication
- Inventories in transit for which this auxiliary has responsibility

Exclude
- Inventories owned by others but held by this auxiliary
- Items not held for resale, such as fixtures, equipment, and supplies

NOTE: Sum of lines d(1) and d(2) should equal total inventories on line b and sum of lines e(1) and e(2) should equal the amount of line d(2)

PUBLICATION PROGRAM

1987 ENTERPRISE STATISTICS

Publications of the 1987 Enterprise Statistics are described below. Publication order forms for the specific reports may be obtained from any Department of Commerce district office or from the Data User Services Division, Customer Services (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

The enterprise statistics program consists of summary tabulations of the data obtained from the various censuses (manufactures, mineral industries, distributive trades, service industries, transportation industries, and construction industries) included within the scope of the 1987 Economic Censuses conducted by the Bureau of the Census. Similar programs were conducted in the 1954, 1958, 1963, 1967, 1972, 1977, and 1982 Economic Censuses.

Essentially, the enterprise statistics program involves aggregating the census data records of establishments that are under common ownership or control and assigning company codes to show various economic characteristics of the firms that own or control the establishments. Statistics for the enterprise-establishment relationships are tabulated by type of company organization, by company size, and by industry classification. Data are also crosstabulated to indicate company industrial diversification patterns. These statistics are arranged in two publications, one focusing on financial data for large companies only, the other presenting basic data items and relationships for all covered companies. One unique group of establishments, called auxiliaries, are examined in detail in a separate publication.

LARGE COMPANIES—1 REPORT(ES87-1)

This is a new report that presents data for companies with 500 or more employees covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses. National level figures are provided by company industry classification on number of companies, number of employees, number of establishments, annual payroll, sales and receipts, inventories, capital expenditures, assets, depreciation charges, and selected operating expenses. Also included in this report are data by employment and asset size, as well as selected historical statistics.

AUXILIARY ESTABLISHMENTS—1 REPORT(ES87-2)

This report presents data on separately reported auxiliary units of multiestablishment firms covered in the 1987 Economic Censuses. Data for these unique establishments are distributed by the industry classification of the operating establishments they service, by the type of management or supporting service function they provide, by their status as a headquarters location, by their employment size, and by their geographic location. Detailed statistics are provided to show the sales and receipts, inventories, assets, depreciation charges, capital expenditures, fringe benefits, and selected operating expenses for auxiliary establishments.

COMPANY SUMMARY—1 REPORT(ES87-3)

This report presents data on structural patterns of American industrial organization in terms of the primary industrial activity of companies; their employment, annual payroll, and sales size; their geographic location; their industry specialization and concentration; and other characteristics for all 1987 census reporting firms and the establishments they own or control. Statistics on auxiliary establishments are presented by the industry classification of their owning company. Also included in this report are company establishment crosstabulations, showing patterns of vertical integration and diversification among industrial firms and selected historical data.

MICROFICHE

All published data are also available on microfiche.

PUBLIC-USE COMPUTER TAPES AND COMPACT DISCS

Selected data also are available on public-use computer tapes and compact discs-read only memory (CD-ROM). For the selected data, tape and discs will provide the same information found in the reports. Computerizd data products are available for users who wish to summarize, rearrange, or process large amounts of data. These products, with corresponding technical documentation, are sold by Data User Services Division, Customer Services (Tapes), Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

OTHER ECONOMIC CENSUS REPORTS

Data on retail trade, wholesale trade, service industries, construction industries, manufactures, mineral industries, transportation, minority-owned business enterprises, and women-owned businesses also are available from the 1987 Economic Censuses. A separate series of reports covers the censuses of outlying areas—Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands of the United States, Guam, and the Northern Marianas. Separate announcements describing these reports are available free of charge from the Data User Services Division, Customer Services (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.
